

SILOS

Silos

The silos of the former sewage treatment plant at Zeeburgereiland are to be given a new function, which should get the support of the local community, something that is always important. The starting point for the reused silos is that the original industrial character is to be retained, both internally and externally.

In cooperation with Woonstichting Eigen Haard (a housing society) and the Public Libraries Foundation Amsterdam, whose aim is providing and circulating information to the Amsterdam community free of charge, we have proposed a new district library which will serve as a centre for meeting and education for the entire local population.
